A New School on the Horizon

When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary to develop an adequate school to help us understand stats, social psych, and the danger of eugenics, one man stands alone. . . In hiking boots.

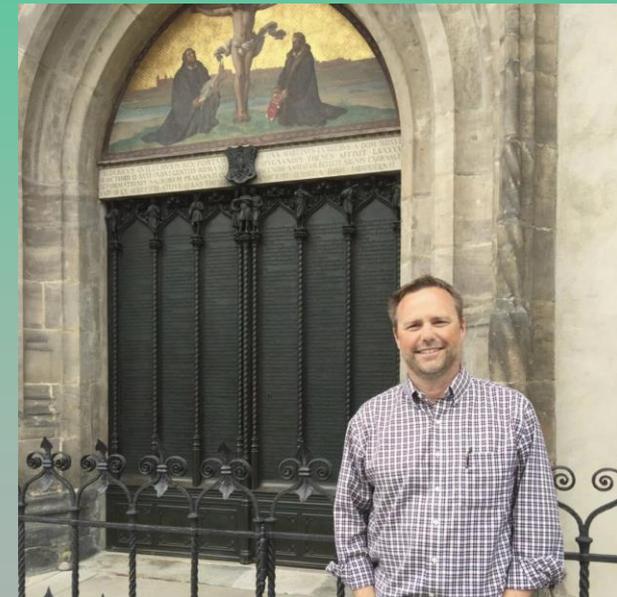

Where other schools of psychology have fallen short, and left us with critiques and questions, a new school will rise above the rest.

Paul Nesselroade (1967 –)

A Thank You Note

- Dr. Nesselroade, I am so grateful to have had you as a professor. My sophomore year was the hardest year of my life, and I will never forget how kind you were, and how you were willing to work with me when I came out of the hospital. Thank you so much for everything that you've taught me, about psychology, about history, and about being a follower of Christ in today's world.
- See you in Berlin!
